THE EDUCATION UNIVERSITY OF HONG KONG Department of Education Policy and Leadership

_____

EDA2062

Democracy and Education: International Perspectives and Local Reflections

Course Outline

Course Instructor:

Dr Hei-hang Hayes Tang

Consultation Hours and Office: Mondays 4:20-5:20 p.m. @ Suite 40, Ist Floor, Block D2, Department of Education Policy and Leadership (or by appointment)

Email address:

hhhtang@eduhk.hk

Telephone number:

(852) 2948-8453

Synopsis

This course addresses two questions: (1) How does education affect democracy and democratic participation? (2) How does democracy affect education? It will be conducted for the first time in 2016 when John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education celebrates its 100th anniversary. Students of the course will study the way in which this book still has influence in its second century since publication, in the context of Asian education and societies. As for the case of Hong Kong, we will critically assess the effectiveness of democratic activities in influencing the making of Hong Kong education policy (for example moral and national education) when the administrative arrangement 'one country two systems' for Hong Kong will end in 2047. You will have the opportunity to conduct a small scale research project which connects democracy and education, as well as assesses critically the extent to what education is for liberation of individual minds or for social control. The research project itself can be an out-of-classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc.

Not taking liberal democracy for granted, this course aims to enable you to critique the concept of democracy, especially considering the interrelationships between education and democracy at different levels of analysis, and apply international perspectives for local reflection. Engaging in the discussions of this course, you will have opportunity to critically reflect upon the relationships between self and nation through informed analysis about democracy and education.

Course Intended Learning Outcomes (CILO<sub>s</sub>)

Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

- CILO<sub>1</sub> Examine the origins of the democratic conception of education and assess its international influence to the way in which education is conducted globally
- CILO<sub>2</sub> Analyse the interconnectedness between democracy and education, namely how democratic participation affects education and how education affects democratic participation
- CILO<sub>3</sub> Illustrate the power relationships underpinning the different levels of education processes
- CILO<sub>4</sub> Propose innovative solutions to global and local social and education problems in pursuit of empowerment, equity, social justice and inclusive education

Schedule, Content, CILOs and Teaching & Learning Activities

Course Content	CILOs	Teaching &
		Learning Activities
10 th September	CILO <sub>1,2</sub>	- Lecture Introduction: Seeking the link between democracy and education Democracy, arguably, is a dominant ideology of the recent centuries. The current decade sees a thirst for social justice and social equity worldwide, in response to the accumulating socio-economic inequalities caused by global capitalism. Alongside democracy, education is another enterprise/domain with which has interwoven connections and dynamic interactions. This introductory session will introduce to you the connections between democracy and education, particularly in the current era of global inequalities and some citizen activism.  IT'h September  Democracy and its critics  In some circumstances, it may be challenging for young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception offin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas still influence the current century, as well as in			1

current era of global inequalities and some citizen activism.  I7 th September  Democracy and its critics  In some circumstances, it may be challenging for young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24 th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception offin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	, activism.  17th September  Democracy and its critics  In some circumstances, it may be challenging for young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	democracy and education, particularly in the
CILO1,3   - Lecture	current era of global inequalities and some citizen
Democracy and its critics  In some circumstances, it may be challenging for young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	activism.
In some circumstances, it may be challenging for young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	17 th September	CILO <sub>1,3</sub>	- Lecture young people, especially university students, to tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  - Tutorial Discussion  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	Democracy and its critics tell their friends that you do not support democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	In some circumstances, it may be challenging for democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	young people, especially university students, to have any limitations? These are the questions this session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  - Tutorial Discussion  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	tell their friends that you do not support session offers to address, examine and engage in meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24 th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception oflin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	democracy at all. But what is democracy? Does it meaningful discussions.  The week starting 24 th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	have any limitations? These are the questions this
The week starting 24th September  "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception oflin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	session offers to address, examine and engage in "Asking one question" online  The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  - Tutorial Discussion  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	meaningful discussions.
The purpose of (democratic) education is to guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  - Tutorial Discussion  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	The week starting 24 th September	CILO <sub>1,2</sub>	- Online Forum guide people to ask questions, rather than provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	"Asking one question" online provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of lin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	The purpose of (democratic) education is to Setting, all questions can be good questions.  Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of lin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	guide people to ask questions, rather than Upon this stage of the course experience, you would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	provide (standardised) answers. In a democratic would have acquire some introductory ideas about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	setting, all questions can be good questions.
about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	Upon this stage of the course experience, you about democracy and education. One simple and meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas meaningful task for this week is to ask one question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of lin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas question in relation to any aspects of democracy and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	, and education. All the questions suggested will be appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas appreciated and discussed/ addressed coherently in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  The origins of democratic conception of/in education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	, , , , , , , , in the class sessions/ tutorials that follow.  8 th October  CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub> - Lecture  - Tutorial Discussion  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas
The origins of democratic conception of lin education  This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	, ,
This session is mainly based on the key ideas from John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	8 th October	CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub>	- Lecture
John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and  Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	The origins of democratic conception of/in education		- Tutorial Discussion Education. While visiting the classical text, we will observe the way in which the book's key ideas	This session is mainly based on the key ideas from observe the way in which the book's key ideas	John Dewey's 1916 classic Democracy and Education. While visiting the classical text, we will still influence the current century, as well as in	observe the way in which the book's key ideas ·	still influence the current century, as well as in the context of Asian education and societies.

I5 th October	CILO <sub>2,3</sub>	- Lecture
Interconnectedness between democracy and education (in the context of globalisng capitalism)  Alongside democracy, education is another enterprise/domain with which has interwoven		- Tutorial Discussion connections and dynamic interactions. How does education affect democracy and democratic participation? And the other way around, how does democracy affect education, and its processes and practices?
Examples will be drawn from Hong Kong, Greater China, and other overseas societies.
Particularly, this session will give an overview about the informed analysis with respect to four levels which will be covered in the last section of the course:
(I) academic knowledge and its socio-political construction;
(2) academic systems, education policies and academic credentials in the global context;
(3) schooling processes, curriculum design and pedagogy in 'lived' classroom; and (4) the power dynamics between different stakeholders of education and governance
22 nd October	CILO <sub>2,3,4</sub>	- Lecture
Democracy and education at macro level I: Academic knowledge and its socio-political construction		- Tutorial Discussion
29 th October	CILO <sub>2,3,4</sub>	- Lecture Democracy and education at macro level II:  Academic systems, education policies and academic		- Tutorial Discussion gradentials in the global contact credentials in the global context

5 th November	CILO <sub>2,3,4</sub>	- Lecture
Democracy and education at meso level:		- Tutorial Discussion Schooling processes, curriculum design and pedagogy in 'lived' classroom
12 th November	CILO <sub>2,3,4</sub>	- Lecture
Democracy and education at micro level:		- Tutorial Discussion Power dynamics between different stakeholders of education and governance
- including governmental education ministries, academic profession in higher education, schools, student activist groups/ student unions, parent groups, alumni associations, teacher unions/education legislators 19 th November	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	- Tutorial Discussion Discussions for Research Project and Individual Essay 26 th November	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	- Student Group Presentations of Research Project		Presentation
Early to mid-December:	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	- Independent Study Research writing for Individual Essay
The week starting 10 th December	CILO <sub>1,2,3</sub>	- Online Forum
"Brainstorming and Clarifying" (B&C) for the individual essay online In this phase of the course, you should be preparing for the research and writing of your 1500 words individual essay. A Moodle online discussion forum will be set up for you to post any questions about the essay.
17 th December (in D2-1/F-40 upon appointment)	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	- Individual
Consultation session for Individual Essay		Consultation 22nd December 2018 (Saturday 11:50 n m.) via Moodle Turnitin link

22nd December, 2018 (Saturday 11:59 p.m.) via Moodle Turnitin link SUBMISSION OF INDIVIDUAL ESSAY (1500 words)

Assessment

a. Research project and class presentation Students are asked to collaborate in groups with 3 to 6 persons for a small scale research project which connects democracy and education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes. Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers. Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	Assessment Tasks	Weighting	CILO
a. Research project and class presentation Students are asked to collaborate in groups with 3 to 6 persons for a small scale research project which connects democracy and education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes. Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers. Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	Assessment lasks		CILO
Students are asked to collaborate in groups with 3 to 6 persons for a small scale research project which connects democracy and education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative  Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  So%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	a Research project and class presentation		CILO with 3 to 6 persons for a small scale research project which connects democracy and education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  No 6 CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	, , ,	35%	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> project which connects democracy and education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay.
education. The research project itself can be an out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay.  Summars de an expected to engage and education.	, , out-of- classroom field observations in teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	, , teachers' unions, protests by students, alumni or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	· or parents, or meetings at HKSAR Legislative Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes. Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers. Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  Sow CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> Council's Panel on Education etc. Students are most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay   Sow CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	, , most welcome to self-formulate a research project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay.  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	, , project, upon consultation with the course instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay.  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> instructor. The research processes should be informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay   So%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> informed by international perspectives on democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay   So%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> democratic conception of education, and apply the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	- the informed analysis to local reflections. The research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> research group will present the research findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	democratic conception of education, and apply findings and arguments in an assigned class session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	the informed analysis to local reflections. The session for about 15-20 minutes.  Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation  In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  Som CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	research group will present the research Analysis of the case study/studies should be informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	findings and arguments in an assigned class informed by readings of about 2-3 academic papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	session for about 15-20 minutes.
papers.  Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay   Som CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	Analysis of the case study/studies should be Assessment criteria of the research project include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  Som CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	informed by readings of about 2-3 academic include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%), applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	papers.
applications and reflections (20%), organisation (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay    CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	Assessment criteria of the research project (15%) and presentation (15%).  b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  TISW  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	include quality of data (20%), analysis (30%),
b. Participation In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay    CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	applications and reflections (20%), organisation
In tutorial sessions and research groups' presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	(15%) and presentation (15%).
presentation, students are expected to engage in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	b. Participation	15%	CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub> in dialogue and express their viewpoints actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	In tutorial sessions and research groups' actively and critically, so as to consolidate their independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	presentation, students are expected to engage independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	in dialogue and express their viewpoints independent understanding about democracy and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	actively and critically, so as to consolidate their and education.  c. Individual essay  50%  CILO <sub>1,2,3,4</sub>	independent understanding about democracy and education.
	c. Individual essay	50%	CILO <sub>1.2.3.4</sub>
	Students are required to write an individual		, ,, essay of about 1500 words on a suggested topic by the course instructor or on a self-formulated topic. The arguments of the essay are expected to be informed by the related academic literature, in application of a specific case study. You are most welcome to use the topic of your research project as case study.

Individual essay includes critical reading and understanding of the relevant academic papers (at least 5), in relation to analysis of the case(s) and reflections.

Assessment criteria comprises significance of the case (that is identification of key issues/debates/concepts) (15%), analysis (30%), integration and coherence of the arguments (20%), applications and reflections (policy and research recommendations) (20%), and presentation and referencing (15%).

Required Text(s)

Dewey, J. 1916/1966. Democracy and education. The Free Press.

Limage, L. J. 2013. Democratizing education and educating democratic citizens: International and historical perspectives (Vol. 8). Routledge.

Noddings, N. 2013. Education and democracy in the 21st century. Teachers College Press.

Sadovnik, A. R. (Ed.). 2007. Sociology of education: A critical reader. Routledge.

Wright-Maley, C., & Davis, T. (Eds.). 2016. Teaching for Democracy in an Age of Economic Disparity. Routledge.

Recommended Readings

Apple, M. W., Ball, S. J., & Gandin, L. A. (Eds.). 2009. The Routledge international handbook of the sociology of education. Routledge.

Apple, M.W. & Beane, J. 2007. Democratic schools, 2nd ed. Heinemann.

Benavot, A. 1996. Education and political democratization: Cross-national and longitudinal findings. Comparative education review, 377-403.

Blessinger, P., & Anchan, J. P. (2015). Democratizing higher education: International comparative perspectives. Routledge.

Gutmann, A. 1999. Democratic education. Princeton University Press.

Mc Ginn, N. F. 1996. Education, democratization, and globalization: A challenge for comparative education. Comparative Education Review, 341-357.

Torres, C. A. 1998. Democracy, education, and multiculturalism: Dilemmas of citizenship in a global world. Rowman & Littlefield Publishers.

Related Web Resources

Freedom to Learn Project:

http://www.freedomtolearnproject.com/freedom-to-learn/

International Democratic Education Network: www.idenetwork.org/index.htm

Democratization and Education:

https://www.facebook.com/groups/366529830218051/?fref=ts

Related Journals

British Journal of Sociology of Education Critical Studies in Education Discourse: Studies in the Cultural Politics of Education Educational Policy
Journal of Democracy

Academic Honesty

The University adopts a zero tolerance policy to plagiarism. For the University's policy on plagiarism, please refer to the Policy on Academic Honesty, Responsibility and Integrity with Specific Reference to the Avoidance of Plagiarism by Students (https://www.ied.edu.hk/re/modules/downloads/visit.php?cid=9&lid=89). Students should familiarize themselves with the Policy.